The Story

The film begins with a prologue set in 872 AD, when a Viking raid on Lindisfarne is interrupted by a massive tsunami. The tsunami destroys the Viking ships and kills many of the raiders.

The story then cuts to present day, where Kristian Eikjord (Pål Sverre Hagen) is a geologist who is working on a project to monitor the risk of tsunamis in Norway. Kristian is a divorced father of two children, Sofia (Ane Dahl Torp) and Sondre (Fridtjov Såheim).

One day, Kristian receives a warning that a massive tsunami is about to hit Norway. He tries to warn the authorities, but they do not believe him. Kristian then decides to take matters into his own hands and try to save his family.

Kristian, Sofia, and Sondre flee their home and head for higher ground. They are joined by a group of other survivors, including a doctor (Ingar Helge Gimle) and a nurse (Maria Grazia Di Meo).

The group travels through a devastated landscape, witnessing the destruction caused by the tsunami. They also encounter other survivors, some of whom are friendly and some of whom are hostile.

Eventually, the group reaches a safe haven, where they are able to rest and recover. However, they know that the danger is not over yet. The tsunami could still hit again, and they must be prepared to face it.

The Characters

Kristian Eikjord is a complex and well-developed character. He is a loving father who is determined to protect his children. He is also a brilliant scientist who is trying to save his country from disaster.

Sofia Eikjord is a strong and independent woman. She is a doctor who is dedicated to helping others. She is also a loving mother who is fiercely protective of her children.

Sondre Eikjord is a curious and imaginative child. He is always asking questions and exploring the world around him. He is also a loyal friend and a loving son.

The other characters in the film are also well-developed and memorable. The doctor is a caring and compassionate man who is always willing to help others. The nurse is a strong and determined woman who is always there for her patients.

The Setting

The film is set in Norway, a country that is known for its beautiful landscapes. The film captures the beauty of Norway, but it also shows the devastation that can be caused by a natural disaster.
